

YIN MEDITATION WORKSHOP

winter + the water element

June 30th

1pm - 3.30pm

each season has its own unique qualities reflected in our minds and bodies winter is time to conserve and contain our energy heal and balance the spine and nervous system. turning inward to nourish the inner aspect restoring and conserving our body and deep energy dropping into the warm winter Ki flow.

the movement of water element is downward, our deep energy the spine posture and breath settling into stillness.

in this workshop, students mindfully explore practices specifically related to winter, the water element and vata gentle postures will focus on the kidney and bladder meridians targeting spine, low back, neck.

come along and explore the gentle meditative side of yoga with practices informed by winter themes.
